

Law
Centres
Network

Social Welfare Issues - UK
3 November 2018

“Poor people are not just like rich people without money”

“Poor people do not lead settled lives into which the law seldom intrudes; they are constantly involved with the law in its most intrusive forms”

“Poverty creates an abrasive interface with society; poor people are always bumping into sharp legal things.”

Stephen Wexler, Practicing Law for Poor People, Yale Law Journal 79, 1970